Quick verdict delivered

Dickerson wins arson trial

By DAN BARBER

The two day arson trial of 40-year-old Houston Dickerson of Waveland ended with the jury of six men and six women promptly pronouncing the defendant not guilty Tuesday afternoon.

Tearful members of Dickerson's family, including his wife, two daughters and son, waited to thank jurors for their verdict as they filed out of the jury box and left the courtroom.

The jury retired to consider their verdict at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday after closing arguments by assistant district attorney James Thomas and defense attorney Boyce Holleman and returned with their verdict 30 minutes later.

Dickerson was indicted last January along with 41-year-old James Charles Jorden of Route 2, Box 24D Old Spanish Trail, and 20-year-old Robert Fisk Jr. of Los Angeles, Calif. after a confession obtained from the codefendants at the time of their arrest Aug. 8 for arson implicated Dickerson.

Dickerson was subsequently arrested on Aug. 20 by Waveland police after Jorden and Fisk stated they set fire to Dickerson's home in Gulfside Subdivision of Waveland after being promised to be paid by Dickerson. The home was destroyed by fire on May 26, 1975 while Dickerson and his family were visiting friends in Louisiana.

Jorden and Fisk were arrested for the fire after Kenneth Ray Jorden, relation of Jorden, tipped Waveland police of Jorden's part in the fire.

Placed on the stand Tuesday in his own defense by defense attorney Holleman, Dickerson said he could not explain why Jorden and Fisk had implicated him in the fire.

"I can only surmise if I had done what they say maybe they are bargaining to get themselves off," said

Dickerson under questioning from prosecutor Thomas.

Dickerson told the court that he had known the codefendant Jorden since October 1974 and had employed him to do some general cleanup about his home. Dickerson also testified that he had let Jorden have a fishing boat which he expected to be paid for, but that Jorden had never paid him.

Gulf View Haven recertified for intermediate nursing care

By CAROLE LANGE

Gulf View Haven Nursing Home has been recertified by the State Board of Health as an intermediate care nursing home, the Echo learned Tuesday.

Edgar W. Santa Cruz, administrator, said the recertification will go into effect July 30 and plans are underway to submit a plan of corrections to have the home's skilled certification restored. Santa Cruz said he would reapply for skilled certification at the end of August.

The Gulf View administrator said an intermediate care home is one which does not require "around the clock" nursing supervision of the patients. He said patients requiring intermediate care are able to do many things by themselves, including dressing and eating, while skilled care patients, for the most part must remain in bed.

The recertification came following talks between Santa Cruz and State Board of Health officials during which the Gulf View administrator outlined his progress in certain critical areas and pointed out the support the home has in the community. He said offers of help from individuals and civic organizations were numerous following publication of the home's situation.

Since the Echo reported three weeks ago that the nursing home was in danger of losing Medicaid payments

Two plead guilty to arson charge

Both Robert Wilson Fisk and James Charles Jorden entered guilty pleas to one count of arson first degree before presiding Circuit Judge J. Ruble Griffin this week following the acquittal of a third defendant, Houston Dickerson, by a Hancock petit jury Tuesday.

Fisk was sentenced to five years in the state penitentiary by Griffin Tuesday with sentence to be suspended for three years while the defendant is under parole of the California Probation and Parole Board. He was also ordered to pay one half of the court costs assessed against himself and codefendant James Charles Jorden.

Judge Griffin delayed sentencing of Jorden Wednesday until a presentencing report could be obtained on the defendant from the Corrections and Parole Board.

Jorden was ordered confined in Hancock County Jail until sentencing. He has been free on $4000 bond since his indictment by the January grand jury.

Jorden was represented by Bay St. Louis attorney Bill Frisbie who criticized the preparation given his client by the district attorney's office for conduct as a state's witness in the arson trial of Houston Dickerson Monday and Tuesday.

In a separate case, the court continued cause 4744 (state vs Gerald Patrick Mauffrey) to allow the defendant time to consult with an

Lunch fees hiked

County advised to hire supervisor

By JAKE JACOB

Upward spiraling costs forced Hancock County school trustees to hike school lunch fees and extra curricula school activity transportation rates Tuesday.

The new lunch room prices are 75 cents for adults (teachers and school staff), and 50 cents for the paying student.

State allowance per meal, according to Miss Patricia Elkins, State Department of Education, who addressed the board, will be 71 cents per meal for the coming year.

Miss Elkins also briefed trustees on the value of their engaging the services of a lunch room supervisor to oversee all activities in the school system's three cafeterias.

Correction

An error in Sunday's newspaper said that Crippled Children's Foundation president David Turner was "indicted" Friday. Turner has not been indicted and the article should have read "indicated" Friday.

The Sea Coast Echo regrets the error.

She said that even taking the supervisor's salary as part of cost, the county would benefit from such a move.

The three main advantages for such engagement, she said, were in institution of a central purchasing

State Highway Commission questions former director's handling of funds

According to a statement released Tuesday by the three-member Mississippi State Highway Commission, "certain apparent irregularities" have been discovered in the handling of highway department funds under the directorship of E.L. Boteler Jr., who resigned his position Friday.

In making the statement, the Commission pointed out that it "intended no embarrassment to anyone," but sought only to relate available information.

The Commission said the irregularities which occurred without the knowledge or consent of its three members, "relate to Boteler's past role as director and in general involve action by him or pursuant to his system; the preparation of a menu permitting the students in all county schools to have the same meals on the same days; the working with personnel to increase the efficiency of the Investigation asked

Spilled L&N cars leak gas;

Faulty tracks again suspected

By JAKE JACOB

"With about $5 million invested in equipment, plus a freight load spread through 124 cars of all types, surely you don't think the Louisville and Nashville Railroad would risk having that damaged by operating over a faulty track?"

Edison Thomas, L&N news bureau manager, Louisville, Ky., supplied the figures and asked the question Tuesday, in the wake of a 17 car wreck over the weekend that resulted in a skin and eye irritating hexamethylene damine solution gas leak from an up-turned tanker spreading over much of the accident scene.

No evacuation from area homes was ordered, but police and firemen stood by throughout the night should the gas leak worsen, making such an eventuality necessary.

Torn up track and strewn railcars extended from the Bookter Street crossing eastward through the old L&N depot and train yard area.

No one was injured in the accident, but two of the clean up squad, Morgan Williams, 25, of Bay St. Louis, and Quinn Miller, 29, of Brewton Ala., were hurt Monday when a derailed freight car broke loose as it was being lifted back onto the tracks by a wrecking crane.

Williams, who sustained a pelvic fracture, was taken to the Gulf Coast Community Hospital in Biloxi where his condition was reported yesterday as being "much improved" following surgery. Miller was taken to Hancock General Hospital where he was treated and released.

Bay St. Louis city commissioners who were present at the scene, both that night and the following morning, said that in view of the fact there had been two major derailments and a fire of some proportions on the same section of L&N track in the last four months, they thought some sort of official investigation was in order.

"This recent sequence of events on this section of L&N track are detrimental to the health and welfare of our citizens," said Commissioner Clarence Lader.

"This is a rough one and calls for an investigation," he added.

Supervisor James Travirca, contacted Monday, said he didn't have any comment at that time but he "knew" there would be a "lot of discussion" about the matter next Monday at the supervisor's meeting.

Railway police, present in numbers Sunday, kept a close scrutiny of press activities, ordering the Sea Coast Echo reporter off "L&N property and out into the road." This, in spite of the fact that nearly 50 bystanders were also in the same area and were not told to move.

City fathers upset over derailments

The Bay St. Louis city council voted Monday to draft a letter to officials of the L&N Railroad expressing concern over two recent derailments in the area and asking that proper action be taken immediately to eliminate the cause of the derailments.

Mayor Warren Carver said the council was concerned for the safety of residents of the community and felt the L&N had not shown good faith in correcting a dangerous situation that has existed for some time.

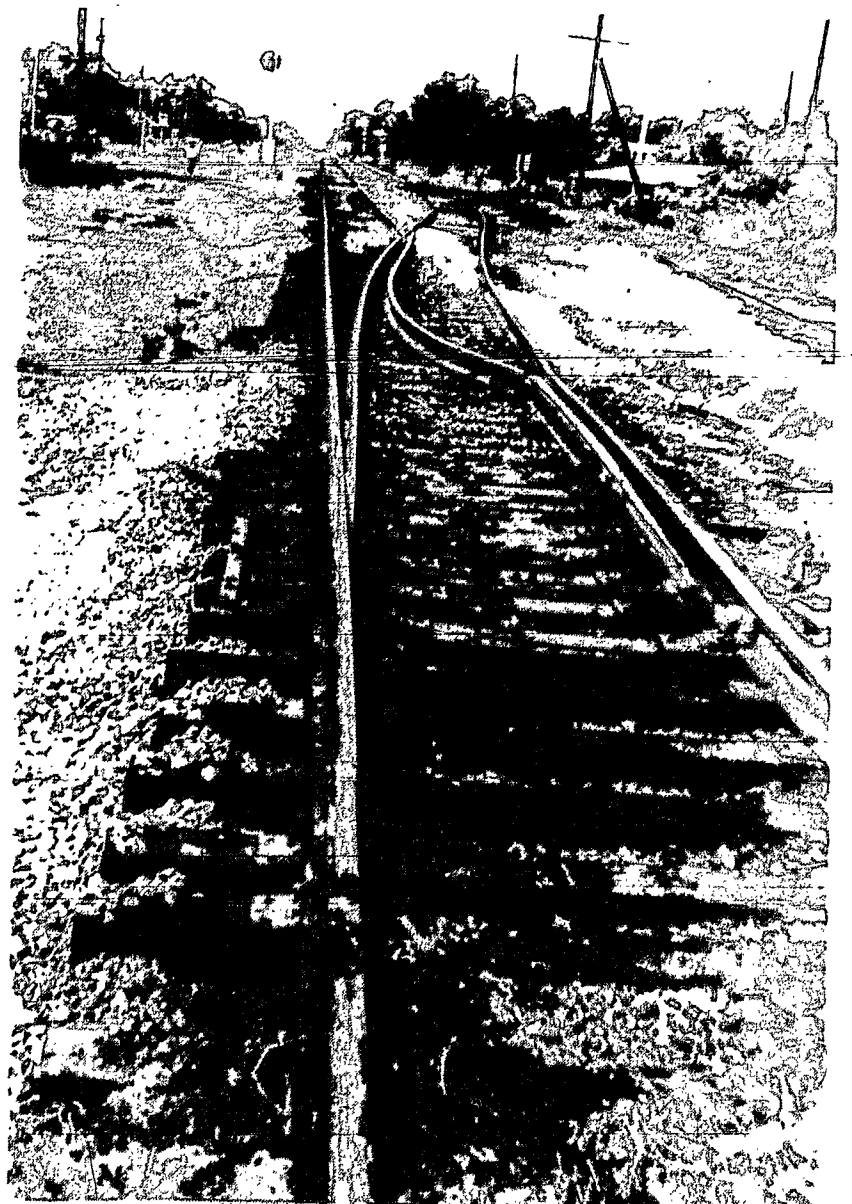

Carver said ties along the section of track in the area of the two derailments (which have been within three months of each other) were really in "bad condition."

Carver added the city intended to put teeth into its request for prompt action from the L&N by asking Public Service Commissioner for the Southern District, John Dale, to investigate the situation also.

In addition, Carver said, the city had instructed the police department to issue tickets to any L&N engineer who exceeds the statutory speed limit of 30 mph while enroute through the city. Carver said the police will use radar to check train speeds.

To protect citizens, Carver said a city ordinance would be amended to prohibit cars from stopping less than 50 feet from crossings while trains are passing. The present ordinance Carver said provides that vehicles stop not less than 10 feet nor more than 50 feet from

Electric bill increase predicted

Mississippi Power Company Vice President John Stephens predicted this week that most customers' electric service bills in August will be "substantially higher" than those received during July.

Stephens blamed the higher bills primarily on the increasing use of air conditioning by customers to offset the discomfort of hot, humid weather experienced throughout southeast Mississippi in recent weeks. He also said that the utility's

August fuel adjustment factor will be 9.721 mills per kilowatt-hour, or approximately $9.72 per 1,000 kilowatt-hours. This represents a light increase over the July factor of 9.371 mills, due to increased generation of electricity from higher cost fuel sources to meet summertime system loads.

"We enjoyed rather mild weather during May and June. Temperatures at night were comfortable, and generally customers did not use air conditioners to any great extent," Stephens explained.

"We are now experiencing typical summer weather with daytime temperatures often reaching into the mid-80's. Consequently, our customers have increased their use of air conditioning, and this is reflected in their electric service bills now being mailed."

Stephens observed that despite conservation efforts by customers and Mississippi Power's emphasis on proper energy management, the demand for electricity throughout the company's service area continues to rise.

"The peak-hour demand, which is the greatest requirement for electric energy placed on the company's system in any one-hour period, reached a record 1,220,000 kilowatts on Friday, July 23. This is 58,000 kilowatts, or five percent, higher than the peak-hour demand set last year, and if the hot weather continues, the energy demand could go even higher this summer."

Stephens emphasized that when customers compare August electric service bills with July bills, they should also compare the number of kilowatt-hours used during each period.

"All of our customers want to conserve energy and keep electric bills from being any larger than necessary, and Mississippi Power can suggest ways that a customer might use his electric service more efficiently."

BICENTENNIAL VISITORS - The Boys Choir of the Resurrection appeared in concert in the St. Stanislaus Chapel recently as part of a 30 day visit in this country. The choir stayed at Stanislaus three days. Concerts were previously given in Philadelphia on July 2 and 4 for the official bicetennial celebration of the nation and in Washington, D.C. and New Orleans. The group returns to France July 29 where the 100 boys attend St. Joseph School conducted by the brothers of the Sacred Heart in Anieres, France.

Federal Land Bank of New Orleans establishes new appraisal service

The Land Bank Appraisal Service, a newly established division of The Federal Land Bank of New Orleans, will begin accepting and processing applications for professional rural real estate appraisals effective Aug. 1, according to Joe G. Spell, president, Federal Land Bank Association of Hattiesburg.

The Appraisal Service will be available on a fee basis to individuals and legal entities who are borrowers, or eligible to borrow, from The Federal Land Bank of New Orleans, and to members of the Production Credit Associations in Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana, the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of New Orleans and the New Orleans Bank for Cooperatives.

Appraisals will be limited to properties normally used as collateral in obtaining loans from any of the Farm Credit institutions in the Fifth Farm Credit District.

A pilot program, the Land Bank Appraisal Service will operate as a separate division of The Federal Land Bank of New Orleans and will have its headquarters in Jackson. S. E. Waggoner Jr. of Jackson will serve as director of the Appraisal Service.

The new service will be equipped to appraise a variety of rural properties in the three-state area, including farms, undeveloped rural land, timber, agricultural facilities and rural homes. Real estate appraisals will be made to determine fair market value on real property as of a certain date, and may also be used as an acceptable appraisal when applying for a loan.

"An appraisal can serve many other purposes as well," Spell said. "It can be useful in estate planning, in making an estimate of net worth for tax purposes, and when forming or dissolving a partnership or farming corporation."

The Land Bank Appraisal Service will offer different types of appraisals, including a letter appraisal, which states only the appraiser's opinion of value without inclusion of the supporting data or the analysis and interpretation leading to his conclusion; a letter-form appraisal, a more detailed appraisal prepared by the appraiser on appropriate forms approved by the Federal Land Bank; and a comprehensive appraisal, a complete and detailed appraisal including such items as soil classes, use of property, building values, drainage, details of comparable sales, projected income and plans.

Mississippi recognized during NPS Days of Honor program at Rushmore

MT. RUSHMORE, S.D. — The State of Mississippi flag flew proudly over Mt. Rushmore National Memorial in South Dakota's Black Hills July 17-18, as this national Bicentennial focal point recognized Mississippi in the National Park Service's 1976 "Days of Honor" commemoration.

Mrs. Nancy Chapman, a South Dakota native now living in Jackson, Miss., received the Mississippi flag in ceremonies at Rushmore July 18. She was designated by Gov. Cliff Finch to represent Mississippi in the ceremonies.

Making the presentation was Rushmore Supt. Harvey Wickware.

"This memorial's significance is as a symbol of the principles of the whole nation," he said, "and we are pleased to honor Mississippi for its contributions to this nation of states as our country celebrates its Bicentennial of Independence."

Mississippi's flag also flies in a special Avenue of Flags constructed at Rushmore for the Days of Honor celebration.

Mt. Rushmore is in the midst of its 111-day Days of Honor program developed by the National Park Service to fulfill the memorial's role in the commemoration of Independence. The Days of Honor program began May 21 and continues through Sept. 8, with each state and principal territory in the nation receiving homage at the memorial.

Mt. Rushmore, known as the Shrine of Democracy, was carved by Gutzon Borglum on a 6,000-foot-high granite mountain as a monumental summation of the American Republic. Borglum chose four Presidents (Washington, Jefferson, Theodore Roosevelt, Lincoln) to symbolize the growth of the United States. The portrait bust of

PRC matriculation fee set at $105 per semester

POPLARVILLE — Students attending Pearl River Junior College the fall and spring semesters of the 1976-77 school year will pay a $105 per semester matriculation fee, according to Jerry Mitchell, PRC business manager.

Boarding students living in five of the six air-conditioned resident halls can expect to pay $87.50 for a room per semester plus $202.50 for a five-day meal ticket, or $250.00 for the seven-day meal ticket.

The total semester room and board cost is $270 for a five day student and $317.50 for a seven day resident. Students living in Marion Hall are required to pay $2.50 more per semester.

Commuting students can purchase a noon day meal ticket for $67.50 per semester.

According to Mitchell, room and board fees may be paid in three equal payments.

Book rental fees for academic and technical students is $25 per semester. Bus transportation from all points within the PRC district cost a student $2 per week.

Tuition and matriculation fees for a vocational course - 10 weeks session is $90. Each student is assessed a $45 shop fee for all vocational courses except welding. The shop fee for welding is $90.

The total cost for an academic student living on campus, with a five day meal ticket, books and matriculation included is $800 per year. Commuting students can pay as little as $260 for a complete year of college work.

Opinion/Jake Jacob

Is L&N playing Russian roulette with Hancock County?

This week we were informed by the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, in the course of trying to determine facts concerning Saturday's train wreck, that our problems were similar to those of many communities who "grew up around a railroad."

The implication seemed to be that any disasters sustained by this community, as the result of railroad operations, are more our responsibility than the railroad's due to our lack of wisdom and foresight in settling close to the tracks.

Apart from dwelling on the obvious - that being the railroad industry's determination for years to have all things and all people revolve around their every want - let us set the rest of the record straight as far as who came first to where.

Let the L&N really think it put this town on the map, let us explain for their benefit that Bay St. Louis began as an Indian village known as Chicapoula.

Gaspar Cortereal, under a commission from Portugal, undertook a voyage of discovery that resulted in the Gulf Coast being first charted, and in 1862, Robert Cavalier de la Salle visited. Pierre le Moyne d'Iberville was here in 1699, putting the first settlers ashore (with a guard of one sergeant and 15 men) in August of that year. A Spanish land grant to Thomas Shields occupied in 1800, brought the name of Shieldsborough, or Shieldsboro, to the community, a name held even on incorporation January, 1858. The original name was again officially adopted on March 2, 1875.

The L&N came to Bay St. Louis as the result of its purchasing the New Orleans, Mobile, and Chattanooga Railroad in 1878, some 20 years after the city's incorporation!

Now, let us get on with the business at hand.

Apparently due to a crumbling switchpoint, units of train 405 sustained serious damage on March 30 of this year, when they left the tracks and finished up upside down in ditches a few, scant feet from occupied residences.

In spite of reassurances received by the city at that time, spilled cargo from that wreck, in the form of highly flammable plastic, spilled from a demolished piggy-back unit and was ignited by a track hand, causing a fire of major proportions.

On Saturday, less than four months later, city residents were again startled out of their beds by the now almost familiar sound of box, flat, and tank cars, smashing their way along the ground and into each other, after having come off the rails.

This time the wreck involved the near rupture of a tanker containing a gas that while described as being "non-fatal" and "water soluble" had sufficient chemical qualities to cause skin burns. Officers of the Bay Fire and Police Departments on duty at the wreck site, felt the gas' effects on their skin, describing them as similar to exposure to poison ivy or sunburn on the neck.

A thorough review of Train 414's waybills would probably reveal cargo having greater potential danger and hazard than the gas that did escape. The L&N contended this week that such conjecture was "unfair and not in good journalistic form" because nothing further did "in effect happen."

In other words, just because the community did not sustain a major conflagration, explosion, injury, or the discomfort of having to evacuate our homes, then why worry or concern ourselves?

We stood in the haze escaping gas on Saturday night and early Sunday morning, watching our firemen do their duty.

We knew the uncertainty of whether or not this wreck was indeed over, or would it still cause some already jarred and as yet unknown cargo to erupt without warning.

We heard of a police complaint having previously been lodged with the railroad concerning the action and reaction of track at that particular location.

We have heard frequent comment from individuals concerning their opinion of the track through this town. We do know that despite the seeming official silence of the L&N concerning accidents, the same switch was apparently involved in both wrecks, and the fire could have been averted had the L&N completely removed its plastic cargo spill.

The railroad also indicated that even though all possible care can be exercised, "...accidents sometimes happen."

True!

We ask rather, these questions. When Train 405 took to the Nicholson Avenue spur at Sycamore in March, to let the same eastbound 414 pass, the switch seemingly crumbled and spilled tank cars every which way before coming to rest. The fact the tank cars were empty is irrelevant. The question that has been asked by many is whether or not adequate track inspection could have prevented the accident. Right?

The fire in April, which for a while threatened frame and project housing on Central Avenue and beyond, requiring quantities of foam to bring under control could have been averted if the railroad had properly cleaned up from the wreck. Right?

The second wreck, July 24, which did leak gas, could have caused a disaster of magnificent proportions had other units of its cargo been subject to the same rough treatment and provided with means of ignition. Right?

How therefore, in the light of public observation, police complaints concerning track conditions, a major fire, and two wrecks along and over the same stretch of track, can the Louisville and Nashville Railroad disclaim public concern with a simple... "don't worry nothing really came of it" attitude?

This city is not behoven to the L&N. It appears to us that all is not kosher concerning the stretch of railway running through Bay St. Louis.

We therefore ask the civil authorities of this municipality and county to institute an investigation of sufficient depth and strength to determine both cause and responsibility.

As Commissioner Clarence Ladner said at the wreck scene, "This recent sequence of events on this section of L&N track is detrimental to the health and welfare of our citizens."

And that, Commissioner Ladner, is putting it very, very mildly.

An abused resource

The state's publicly-held 16th Section school lands could very well be Mississippi's most misused natural resource.

Recent studies by the Mississippi Economic Council - the State Chamber of Commerce - have shown that surface leases have been awarded for these lands for as little as 40 cents per acre. The surveys also found that annual income realized from all sources for 16th Section lands was less than $5 per acre.

The Mississippi Supreme Court has said such practices amounted to little more than donations of the lands to favored leaseholders.

Mississippians should realize that these precious lands were set aside as a trust for the school children of the state to supply funds for public education. Unfortunately, in some areas they have not been managed as a trust should be managed.

The Legislature has taken positive actions in recent years, actions which were steps in the right direction. But there is a need for more action to assure that the full benefit of these lands is realized.

MEC has suggested a three-step plan which would move the lands toward proper management and utilization.

- Proper reclassification of 16th Section lands to assure efficient use.

- Business-like leasing on a competitive basis.

- Legislative appropriations sufficient to complete the survey and classification of the lands.

The 1977 session of the Mississippi Legislature should study these proposals and move to ensure that this public trust is managed in a manner that will bring the fairest return for our public school and children.

Considering the makeup of this 94th Congress and the loud demands in recent weeks, you would think that genuine tax reform is just around the corner.

Don't bet on it. The 1536-page tax reform bill currently in the Senate will fail to satisfy those Americans who are calling for a major overhaul of our tax system.

The only thing anyone can agree on is the universal - and politically popular - opinion that we do need tax reform. Beyond that, there's little agreement on anything.

The result is a bill that, in the words of a Washington newspaper, will "drive taxpayers deeper into the arms of accountants and tax lawyers and expand their temptations to cheat. Most experts agree the bill will make everything worse, even in the areas targeted for reform."

That view of the bill is shared by a Chicago newspaper, which recently reported that "the 'reform' is laden with favors."

Another Washington newspaper, a fervent supporter of tax reform, had this to say about last week's developments:

"The Senate's performance so far has been a deeply disheartening spectacle. It is a cautionary tale for voters to keep in mind as they applaud those candidates who promise tax reform. That commodity is easier to order than to deliver."

The sad fact of the matter is that our present system is a complicated maze that boggles the human mind. The current tax reform bill - warmly embraced by many of those liberals who recently promised tax reform - will make it even more complicated.

Senator Bill Brock of Tennessee recently demonstrated just how complicated that new system will be if enacted. He sent out next year's proposed 1040A (short) forms to his staff members and to members of the Paperwork Commission, asking them to compute their latest taxes on the new forms.

The result: 63 percent of the returned forms contained errors. And remember that it was the SHORT form, the "simple" one that people use when they itemize nothing!

That's hardly encouraging to those of us who want a simpler form, one that can be understood and easily completed by the majority of Americans. Still, that's the kind of "reform" produced by this bill.

If there's something else we don't need, it's an increased federal deficit. Again, that's what we'll get if this tax reform bill is passed. Senator Ed Muskie of Maine and his Senate Budget Committee had thought they could raise $2 billion on the bill and based their budget on that assumption. As it now turns out, however, federal revenues next year - as a result of this bill - will be at least $1.2 billion LOWER than the budget projection.

That means the federal deficit next fiscal year will be $1.2 billion higher. And that's bad news.

There are some popular - and commendable - provisions in the tax reform bill. It contains an extension of the lower income tax rates through the end of 1977, a few energy conservation measures, and even a retirement income credit provision.

Good news on the tax front is that a House Ways and Means subcommittee has recommended to the full committee that the estate tax exemption be raised from $60,000 to $150,000. That's a step in the right direction for individuals, farmers, and small businessmen.

All in all, however, this doesn't look like the year for genuine tax reform. We'll probably get a bill that's called "tax reform" but we'll wind up with more forms, more instructions, and more taxes.

Save The Bay

To the Editor,

Your "Save The Bay" letter, took top priority in my view, because of the vital truth and pertaining to an industry, furnishing some needs for our people, but also having greater potential, for slow poisoning and ultimate death for so many; its waste content being poured into a deep well, will eventually damage our Artesian water wells and who knows how it will cripple the fine seafood, our Coast is noted for, if its waste content is dumped into the Bay.

I have read in news articles, where certain States forbid the Dupont Company coming in. I wish today that I had saved all this important information, for my scrapbook. I would send it to you for reprinting, that was all before we tied up with Dupont. It seems America with all its glut, for new industry and progress is slowly but surely, killing off its intrinsic values and its natural beauty. In our search on the moon and mars looking for life; we are subversively killing life here on earth, trying to make us accept what we know not of, under the guise of beneficence to mankind, later on.

We are never satisfied; our curiosity will truly match that old saying, heard many years ago, "curiosity killed the cat," we are the human cats.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Eleanor McFie
Bay St. Louis, Miss. 39520

Sailor beaten

To the editor,

There seem to be few places in our society where one can escape the reach of government regulations. The waters that abound Mississippi and Louisiana are great places to sail and forget the worries of a government grown too big.

On July 28th my wife and I were sailing our sunfish in Bay St. Louis, Mississippi when a patrol boat came alongside and the operator began to harass me about having a U.S.C.G. approved personal flotation device aboard. Now if you are not familiar with a sunfish it is 14 foot long with a cockpit big enough for your feet only. The hull is virtually unsinkable (what could be safer than a 14' life raft.) To make a long story short when I came to my landing I was asked to show my drivers license. Now remember fellow mariners keep your drivers license in your bathing trunk.

Would you believe they were so concerned about my safety that I was put under arrest, beaten with a billy club and handcuffed when I told one of the five officers to take his hands off my wife. My wife and I were paraded in front of our children to a police car then driven to central lockup in Gulfport, Miss., where I was booked with resisting arrest and operating a vessel without sufficient U.S.C.G. approved personal flotation devices aboard. I was released on a $75 cash bond. Yes it sounds unbelievable.

Having grown up on the Gulf Coast and having sailed these beautiful waters, one learns many a lesson and a deep respect for the sea. This respect did not spring from government regulations which can only stifle individual responsibility.

John B. Stahl

City is thanked

To the Editor,

I wish to publicly thank Bay St. Louis Commissioners Lucien Kidd and Clarence Ladner and Hancock Supervisor James Travira for repair of Bayou Gallere Road.

I had made repeated requests for repair of the road since it was becoming impassable. Through the efforts of these gentlemen the road now is in good shape.

My sincerest gratitude and appreciation to them.

Sincerely,
Arthur A. Jeanfreau

Tells of 'higher judge'

I would like to remind the Chamber of Commerce and officers of the law that the root of crime is the failure of parents, churches and judges to make it known that there is a great judge that sees and hears everything, everywhere, and He doesn't need any witnesses. He is His own witness and everybody will stand before Him. Both small and great.

Mrs. A. G. Pope

R&D Center to produce national economic development learning kit

JACKSON—An economic development learning kit for national use will be produced by the R & D Center with a grant of nearly $48,000 from Economic Development Administration (EDA), according to Dr. Kenneth C. Wagner, director of the Center.

The training package will combine 16mm films, an economic development manual written by Wagner, and "how-to" materials. Three short 16mm films in color will explain basic principles of planning for and managing economic growth.

Written materials in the form of the manual and guides will be provided to development groups for follow-up work. The films will be designed for use on television or for local development groups, civic clubs and other uses.

"The purpose of this important project is to develop both film and written materials that will provide persons interested in community, industrial, and economic development with the information they need to organize and carry out action programs that will succeed," said Wagner. "No such materials are presently available. The need for these materials is reflected in the fact that the R & D Center regularly receives phone calls, correspondence and delegations from agencies both within and outside of Mississippi who are seeking guidance in how to plan and carry out effective development programs. Recent delegations have come from as far as Montana, Minnesota and New York."

The overall project will be coordinated by Wagner. Production of the film will be under the direction of Norris

Ltd., of Jackson, specialists in the production of films and television materials for educational markets and public affairs programs.

The project is also expected to produce training strategies to provide both local and state leaders with techniques for applying the film and written materials effectively. The R & D Center will host the initial training seminar, which will be followed by another in Washington, D.C. for EDA personnel.

About 10 months will be required to complete all phases of the project.

Taxpayers ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. I received a bill from the IRS for additional taxes they say I owe on my 1975 tax return. I believe they made a mistake and that I owe nothing. What can I do?

A. When you receive your tax bill, you have 10 days from the date of assessment, shown on the bill, to pay the additional tax. If you think the bill is wrong, you should bring it immediately to your local IRS office with cancelled checks, back tax returns or any other documents you think will help in correcting the mistake. Refer to your tax bill for the address and telephone number of the local IRS office.

If, however, in correcting any error in the bill a tax deficiency remains, you will be asked to pay any tax, interest, or penalty due.

If you believe you cannot pay immediately what you owe, bring in whatever records may be useful in supporting your financial situation. If examination of your financial condition shows that paying the tax immediately would cause undue hardship, an agreement may be reached based on your maximum ability to pay.

Q. I am running for a city council seat. I have spent some of my own money for campaign materials and ads in local newspapers. Can I deduct these expenses on my income tax return?

A. No any expenses you incur as a candidate for public office are not deductible, even if you are the incumbent. This includes money spent for registration fees in primary elections.

Q. My daughter was married this year, and I would like to know if I may include the wedding expenses in the total support I gave her for the year.

A. Wedding expenses you paid, such as the cost of your daughter's gown and accessories, the flowers, church and the wedding reception, may be included when calculating your daughter's total support. If you have contributed over half her total support for the calendar year, and if she is not filing a joint return with her husband, you may claim your daughter as a dependent for that year provided she meets all the other tests for dependency.

School for handicapped

plans open house Aug. 3

An open house for Silver Creek School, a new facility for developmentally delayed children, will be held Tuesday, Aug. 3 from 2-4 p.m. at Kiln, Miss. The school is located on the south side of the Fenton-Delisle Road, one mile east of Annunciation School.

Silver Creek director Mrs. Jane Baumgartner said the school is open to all students in Hancock and Pearl River counties between the ages of four and 21 whose physical or mental handicaps prevent their attendance at public school.

Funded by Title 20 federal monies, the school operates under the auspices of the Gulf Coast Mental Health Center. Invitation to the open house are being sent to all Hancock and Pearl County and municipal officials plus many local residents.

"We hope to see everybody in the two-county area who would like to visit our school come out to this event," the director said.

The director said staff hours are from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily with children's attendance.

times being from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

"We are hoping the federal funding will permit acquisition of a bus to better serve these children," Mrs. Baumgartner said.

She said information concerning the school could be obtained by telephoning 255-0190.

WAVELAND RESORT INN

What's new in business

Workers were busy this week putting up the new sign at the Waveland Resort Inn on U.S. Highway 90 in preparation for the grand opening of the motel's Buccaneer Lounge Friday. The motel is the former Ramada Inn.

Gulf Park announces six afternoon courses

LONG BEACH - Six courses will be taught during afternoon sessions in the fall quarter at the University of Southern Mississippi-Gulf

Park, announced Dr. John Burch, director of academic affairs.

"We have had some requests for afternoon—rather than evening—classes, and we're offering these afternoon classes to determine if sufficient need exists to justify teaching classes from 1:40 p.m.," said Dr. Burch.

Classes scheduled are:

Mondays: Fundamentals of Management, at Keesler AFB.

Tuesdays: Real Estate

Principles and Insurance, at Long Beach; American Literature II, at Long Beach; and Principles in Trade and Industrial Teaching, at Keesler AFB.

Wednesdays: Money and Public Policy, at Keesler AFB.

Thursdays: Principles of Marketing at Gulf Park.

Dr. Burch said additional afternoon courses would be offered in the future if the demand is sufficient.

Mississippi-Alabama petroleum marketers to meet on Coast

Theo. H. Dinkins II, president, Mississippi Petroleum Marketers Association, announced today that the state's petroleum marketers will join with Alabama's group for a two-state meeting on the Mississippi Gulf Coast August 8-10.

The joint meeting will be held at the Biloxi Hilton Hotel beginning Sunday evening with a Seafood Spectacular concluding with dinner and dancing Tuesday evening.

Program highlights include the appearance of R. C. Moore, vice president, Public Affairs, Cities Service Oil Co., Tulsa, Oklahoma, and Jack C. Pester, president of the National Oil Jobbers Council.

Pester, who is chairman of the Board, Pester Derby Oil Co., Des Moines, Iowa, has played important roles in the petroleum industry, but heading the national association with its diversity of membership during this particular time of crisis for the petroleum industry will, no doubt, be his most valuable contribution. He is expected to tell of NOJC activity and impact on the Washington scene and other NOJC areas of concern.

Also of much interest to convention attendants will be the comments of Moore, a native of Shreveport, La., who was named to his present position following a 26-year career in Cities Service Company's marketing organization.

Jamie W. Howell Sr., recently appointed State Motor Vehicle Comptroller, will address the general membership meeting Tuesday.

attorney and prepare a defense.

Maufray told the court he had never been served with a copy of an indictment returned against him for possession of a controlled substance by a Hancock grand jury last July. Sheriff Sylvan Laddier supported Maufray's claim, saying he had been told by District Attorney Albert Neffise to delay serving Maufray while the defendant was in the state penitentiary. Maufray was in Parchman serving 13 months on another charge when the indictment was returned, Laddier said.

Griffin made the case returnable to the October term of the circuit court and released Maufray on a property bond signed by his parents.

crossings while trains are passing. The present ordinance Carver said provides that vehicles stop not less than 10 feet nor more than 50 feet from crossings. Carver said he did not feel the 50 feet limit was too much under the circumstances. The city, he added, would erect proper signs at all crossings.

Carver said he had been advised by an L&N supervisor that the railroad would pay for all overtime accrued by city employees incurred in the cleanup and security of the derailment. Carver said this mostly involved police and firemen who were called to the scene Saturday night.

Dickerson wins...

and the two had argued about that.

Besides Dickerson, the defense also called Dickerson's wife, daughter Charlotte, 18, son, James, 11, and a number of character witnesses including banker John Rosetti, Circuit Court Clerk Henry Otis, Justice Court Judge Joe Dobson, Hancock County Supervisor Dolph Kellar, Rev. Lee Burns and R.H. Coleman.

The state called Waveland Police Chief Donald Dorn, deputy state fire marshal Norman Cowert, Jorden and Fisk.

Cowert testified he investigated the fire May 27 after receiving a call from Chief Dorn the previous day. An examination of the house, he said, revealed that a flammable liquid had been used to start the fire at a place near the stairwell of the two story home.

Later in the trial, Dickerson testified the home had been insured for $24,000 and its contents for $11,000 with the State Farm Insurance Agency.

Both Fisk and Jorden stood by their earlier confession in their testimony to the court Monday, saying Dickerson was to pay them for setting the fire.

The two testified they obtained entry to the house the night of May 26, 1975 through a carport window allegedly left unlocked by Dickerson while the family was out of town. Jorden said the men used lighter fluid from a barbecue pit to start the fire, then walked through a wooded area back of Dickerson's home to the former Ramada Inn on Highway 90 where they had left their car.

USDA payments increased for school, day care program

ATLANTA, Ga. — School lunch, breakfast, milk, and day care programs will receive increased payments in line with the change in the Consumer Price Index (CPI), the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has announced.

Officials of USDA's Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) said the adjustments, effective July 1, reflect the 3.128 percent increase in the CPI for the 6 month period, December through May, 1976.

The increased payments will assist schools and institutions which participate in the National School Lunch, School Breakfast, Special Milk, and Child Care Food Programs. The national minimum average value of commodities donated for the National School Lunch Program was also increased.

In the National School Lunch Program in national, average payment to states, used in turn by schools and institutions to help defray food cost for each lunch served, will be increased from 12.50 cents and 15.00 cents, FNS officials said. Within that average, states are authorized to vary the rate of reimbursement up to a maximum of 19 cents a lunch. Previously, the ceiling was 18.50 cents.

The additional average payment to states for lunches served to needy children will be increased by 1.75 cents to 48.50 cents for a reduced-price lunch and 58.50 cents for a free lunch, FNS officials said.

The maximum reimbursement states may pay schools and institutions for a reduced price lunch is 76.50 cents and for a free lunch is 86.50 cents.

Under the School Breakfast Program, the national average payment will be increased by 50 cents to 19.50 cents. The additional average payment for each reduced-price breakfast, which has been 19 cents, will be increased to 19.50 cents. The additional average payment for a free breakfast, which has been 25.25 cents, will be increased to 26 cents, FNS officials noted.

Maximum rates for reimbursement states may pay schools and institutions remain at 40 cents for each reduced-price breakfast and 45 cents for each free breakfast.

States earn payments in the Child Care Food Program at the same levels as they do under the school lunch and school breakfast programs. Payments for mid-morning and mid-afternoon snacks remain at 5.25 cents. Reduced price snacks will be reimbursed an additional 10.75 cents and free snacks will be reimbursed an additional 16 cents.

The national average minimum value of commodities — or cash in lieu of commodities — per lunch to be made available under the National School Lunch Program and Child Care Food Program for the period, July 1, 1976, to September 30, 1977, will be 11.75 cents. This is 69 percent increase in the food away from home series of the CPI during the period, June 1975 to May 1976, FNS officials said.

The adjusted rate of reimbursement per half pint of milk served under the Special Milk Program will be 6 cents for paying children in fiscal year 1977, an increase of 6.9 percent over fiscal year 1976. The payment to schools and institutions for milk served to needy children will remain at the purchase price of the milk.

FNS officials said the rates of payment became effective July 1.

Inflation-Fighting Food Ideas

Pizza Party Snacks Are Winners All The Way

Cards take over for the summer as an excellent portable game to play around the pool, on the back porch, or any other quiet nook. Here's a chance to make snackin' easy and good by using an all-in-one package pizza which includes an easy to make dough mix, canned sauce and cheese. Try some mini-mini pizzas in the shape of hearts, diamonds, etc., prepare them ahead of time, arrange on trays, cover with plastic wrap and place in the refrigerator. When time for a break comes, just pop them in the oven; and 15 minutes later, you've got a snack that beats them all!

CARD PARTY PIZZAS

- 1 package (28-7/8 oz.) Chef Boy-a-Dee®
- 2 Complete Cheese Pizzas
- 1 can (2-3/4 oz.) rolled anchovy fillets
- 3 or 4 stuffed olives, sliced
- 3 or 4 slices pepperoni or sausage

Prepare pizza dough according to package directions. Roll out 1/2 dough; cut with cookie cutters into desired shapes. Pinch up sides to hold sauce. Place approximately one tablespoon of sauce, from package, on each mini-mini pizza. Sprinkle with cheese, from package. Garnish with anchovies or your other favorite toppings, such as olives, pepperoni or sausage. Do the same with remaining half of dough. Cover with plastic wrap and store in refrigerator until ready for baking. Bake at 425°F. for 12 to 15 minutes. Makes approximately 2 dozen mini-mini pizzas.

South Central Bell to add Hancock cable facilities

To meet the expanding communications needs of its Bay St. Louis customers, South Central Bell is scheduled to start work this month on an addition to the cable facilities along Lower Bay Road and Hancock Drive.

District Manager F.M. Kyle

Jr., said the new telephone lines will be ready for service late in the first quarter of 1977. "This project provides more telephone service to the extreme western service area of the exchange and includes the Clermont Harbor, Ansley and Lakeshore communities," Kyle added.

Locate a laundry room for convenience

By NORINE BARNES
Have you ever figured the amount of time and steps spent every week to do the family's laundry? Of course the larger the family, the more laundry to be done, but even small families have a large pile of soiled clothing and household linens each week. This pile gets noticeably larger in the summer.

Washers and dryers may be found in many different locations in today's homes. Choosing the best location for a laundry center depends on the layout of the house, availability of plumbing and electrical lines, schedule of the person who does most of the laundry, and the family budget.

Two areas that are recommended for laundry equipment are the bedroom, bathroom and the kitchen. The bedroom-bathroom location is a good location since most soiled clothing, sheets and towels start there and must be stored once again in that area.

The kitchen area is a favorite with many homemakers since a large part of their time is spent here. Plumbing lines are conveniently located, and if a back door is situated nearby, muddy or dirty, play or gardening clothing can be left in the laundry areas for washing.

There are many other possibilities for a laundry center and even if there is an additional cost for plumbing, it may be well worth it. A family or hobby room is one such choice; a spare bedroom, patio, breezeway or carport are others.

Wherever you locate a laundry room, remember that correct techniques for drying clothes and good laundering procedures go hand in hand. Both require know-how in sorting clothes, loading the appliance and selecting the right temperature and cycle.

A first step to proper drying is sorting. Generally, the items that can be washed together can be dried together. If lightweight and heavyweight fabrics are part of a mixed load, the lightweight items will dry faster. For best results, dry items of similar weight together. Separate lint givers, such as towels, sweaters and rugs from lint receivers, such as permanent press, corduroy and stretch fabrics. Turn dark colored items inside out and separate them from light pieces. Dry non-colorfast garments separately.

Turn pockets of heavy garments inside out for faster and more even drying. Close zippers and fasten hooks and eyes to prevent snags. Unbutton buttons.

The amount of clothes in a load is another consideration. Don't overload — clothes need room to tumble. In this way, they will dry more quickly and are less likely to wrinkle. Sheets take more space in a dryer as they dry; therefore, do two at a time and add medium and small size items in order to balance the load.

Minimize wrinkling of permanent press and man-made fiber knits by drying smaller loads. If the dryer load is too small, include a few towels to the load to maintain tumbling action.

FmHA distributes record $258 million

Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) distributed $258 million in loans and grants throughout Mississippi during the past 12 months, constituting "a record amount of funds channeled into the state's economy," according to J.F. Barbour III, state director. Barbour said this week that the 8,600 loans had gone to families and local groups who were unable to obtain adequate credit from conventional sources.

"We have given people the opportunity to own homes, to earn a living by farming, to go into business and provide water and sewer service to their homes. The success came when people took full advantage of that opportunity," he said.

Barbour commended the Hancock County FmHA staff for their contribution toward the record year. He said $555,000 was distributed locally through the 1976 fiscal year, with the majority of funds, in the amount of $295,000 distributed through 17 rural housing loans.

Kenneth W. Lee, county FmHA supervisor, singled out the FmHA County Committee for the "essential role it played in this year's success." The committee, which has a review and advisory function in FmHA operations, included McCoy Shaw and Virgil Stockstill. New members include Tommy Shaw, who filled McCoy Shaw's expired term, and Paul Harriel.

New Orleans Museum of Arts opens Artists Biennial Winners exhibit

The New Orleans Museum of Art will open "1975 Artists Biennial Winners," a series of exhibitions of works by six regional artists, Sunday, July 25.

Artists whose work will be on display include C. Kenneth Havis, Denton, Tex.; James Hill, Dallas, Tex.; O.W. "Pappy" Kitchens, Jackson; Michael Kostluk, Houston; Russ Warren, Grey Forest, Tex.; and Edward Whiteman, New Orleans. The artists were recommended by Biennial juror Jane Livingston from among 116 artists whose works were selected for inclusion in the 1975 Artists Biennial at the New Orleans Museum of Art, for which 909 artists submitted entries.

Havis' fanciful works incorporate a wide variety of natural and man-made material which is clustered, sewn, glued, painted and stained. In Hill's mixed media assemblage-sculpture, he chooses the familiar shapes of two favorite geographic zones — the African continent and the State of Texas — as a device to investigate affinities and contrasts of cultures and attitudes. Kitchens' images are a direct and unself-conscious reportage of people and events from his past, as well as personal commentaries on contemporary social issues.

Kostluk alters and manipulates his camera image either through "visually lifesize" enlargement or with the addition of coloring chalks, graphite and/or watercolor. Warren's paintings interpret and transcribe his environmental elements of skulls, barbed wire, cattle and cactus into a new Texas landscape. Whiteman creates what appears to be contemporary archaeological icons or rediscovered ancient banners through a lengthy and complex process of manipulating large sheets of freely suspended fibrous paper.

The works in these exhibitions manifest in general the artists' concern with scale and process, implementation of literary word references, and a refreshing experimentation with media. Several incorporate irony and humor, and a sense of time and age are prevalent factors.

From these exhibitions, the Museum will purchase a selection of works for its permanent collection. Funds for these acquisitions are derived from the Harrod and Jourdan Endowments and special monies raised by the Museum's Women's Volunteer Committee.

In conjunction with the exhibitions, the Museum has produced videotape interviews and dialogues with each of the artists. The tapes will be shown continually in the galleries during regular Museum hours and a 48 page illustrated catalog of the exhibition will be available at the Museum Shop.

The exhibitions will continue in the Ella West Freeman Gallery through Sept. 5.

COOLING COSTS MONEY USE ELECTRICITY WISELY

Primarily because of air conditioning, Mississippi Power Company's typical residential customer buys twice as many kilowatt-hours in midsummer as in April. And this increased use of electricity is reflected in your monthly bill.

We suggest that when you compare this month's bill with last month's, also compare the number of kilowatt-hours used. Only you can control the amount of electricity you use.

Here are some summertime cooling tips to help you get the greatest possible value from your electric service dollar.

1. Set your thermostat at the highest comfortable setting, usually about 78 degrees. The lower the setting, the more energy required to operate the air conditioning unit.
2. Clean or change air conditioning filters at least once a month. Dirty filters make the unit work harder and cause higher operating costs.
3. Your air conditioning unit works extra hard to combat heat from direct sunlight. Awnings, shutters, and drapes over windows provide the best protection from sun's rays. Keep them drawn during the sunniest part of the day.
4. If your unit has been off during a cool night, give it an early start the next morning before a new day's summer heat fills the house.
5. Check attic for adequate ventilation. Otherwise, excess heat builds up and makes your cooling system work harder than necessary.
6. When replacing or adding a cooling unit, select one with a high energy efficiency ratio (EER). The higher the EER number, the more efficient the cooling unit. An EER of 7.5 or better is considered good.
7. Use major heat-producing appliances during the cooler hours of the day, in the morning or at night. This will help reduce the cooling load during the hottest part of the day (usually between 12 noon and 8 p.m. in this area). Cooling equipment is less efficient when the outdoor temperature is high.

Train derailment...

Questioned Monday, Assistant Bay St. Louis Police Chief Douglas Williams said the L&N squad asked him to "keep the people off the L&N property as much as possible - including the man from the paper!"

City patrolmen Larry Ladner and Dennis Favre were instructed by a railway policeman - described by Ladner as a railway detective - "to keep the press off railroad property..." even though the reporter was at the time standing on a public road with people and cars arriving and departing the depot regularly - some 50 feet or so closer to the wreck.

Ladner said the only other instructions he was given were to "try and keep the people back..." an assignment he said was almost impossible due to their very numbers and frequency of arrival and departure.

L&N's news chief said that the entire stretch of track between New Orleans and Biloxi Bay was mostly rebuilt after Hurricane Camille in 1969, and that the switch on Sycamore was rebuilt after the wreck in late March.

Asst. Police Chief Williams said he had personally called the L&N Railroad agent concerning the state of the track at the Bookter Street crossing after he had observed it bouncing up and down under the weight of a passing train.

Bay Police Chief Billy Carbonette said the city has been lucky to have escaped more serious consequences of the two recent train wrecks and the effects of a bad fire resulting from a spilled cargo. "I feel the railroad should make a thorough investigation of the complete line to see that this does not happen again," Carbonette said.

Carbonette said L&N should do a complete inspection of the entire track and switches.

"It is said that three strikes and you're out - and we have had two wrecks because of what looks like the same switch," Carbonette added.

Wrecking crews from New Orleans, La., and Mobile, Ala., arrived on the scene early Sunday morning to begin restoration of service and refurbishment of damaged units.

Mainline operations were resumed Monday with freight trains easing over the repaired area at much reduced speeds.

City Fire Chief Bob Gavagnie identified the spilled solution after checking the train's waybills in conjunction with the conductor. Three fire department personnel described by Gavagnie as being the "heroes of the night," donned breathing apparatus and protective clothing to make several trips to the overturned tank car to quell the gas flow at the source, a dislodged loading dome.

"This squad sealed the leak to an insignificant flow, and deserve the credit," the fire chief said.

Involved in the effort were Assistant Chief Andrew Lizana and firemen Mike Willumitis and Don San Filippo.

Cause of the derailment appeared, unofficially, to stem from a problem originating within the same switch at Sycamore Street that apparently led to a similar wreck some four months back.

The chain of events began Saturday when train 414, an eastbound freight, was diverted onto the passing track to let a westbound unit clear for New Orleans. Returning to the mainline, No.

414 powered off the passing track over the Sycamore Street switch (designated on an adjacent railway structure as the Nicholson Avenue North Box) and began to move out towards Pass Christian.

The 93rd car from the engine, apparently and for some as yet officially unexplained reason, jumped the track and took the next 18 cars with it before a coupling broke, separating the derailed train from its straining diesels.

Prompt radio calls originating from the caboose alerted the train engineer of the break, bringing the front two-thirds of 414 to a stop. The train's speed at the time of the incident has been set at 12 m.p.h.

Six of the derailed units turned over. Of the balance, most tipped but stayed leaning, their wheels dug almost out of sight into the track bed. Ties, rails, and ballast were leveled and jarred into an almost unrecognizable form of kindling, twisted metal, and snapped bolts.

Assistant Police Chief Douglas Williams said his office was notified of the accident by an unidentified caller about 11 p.m. Fire and police forces arrived at the scene in a matter of minutes, the site being just a few, scant blocks from the city's emergency services headquarters.

Gavagnie said he and the train's conductor went through the train's waybills to determine both the nature of the obviously escaping gas, and whether or not other dangerous cargoes were being carried.

Verifying his findings with the car's external content labels, Gavagnie contacted Chem-Trec in Washington, an independent organization funded by various industrial manufacturers, to ascertain the gas's characteristics, flash point, and toxicity.

Gavagnie said the gas was described as an "irritant" and non-fatal, although skin burns would occur as the result of direct contact. Further, he said he was told by Chem-Trec that it was water soluble.

All these statements were later verified by a DuPont chemist. As part of its function, Chem-Trec had called the chemical firm, who had manufactured the shipment, and they in turn contacted the Bay fire department.

Police and firemen in contact with the solution in vapor form said it felt like the "prickly" burn of poison ivy. Because it was water soluble, the solution washed off without ill effect.

Originally leaking at an amount estimated as approximately 10 to 12 gallons per hour, the flow was reduced to a fraction of that amount.

Gavagnie said the solution was being shipped from DuPont's plant at Orange, Texas, to another of its facilities at Auttill, Va.

"The chemical is utilized in the manufacture of nylon," Gavagnie said.

He said some concern was originally expressed over the chemical's exposure to marine life, should it be spilled or washed into a drainage ditch leading to the Gulf. This fear was averted, however, when DuPont's chemists, and state air and water pollution control officials, who also arrived at the scene, were advised of the flow rate.

Gavagnie said a second tank car was also leaking but in such a small amount to give no cause for concern. Contents of this tanker were not specified.

cafeteria program. Miss Elkins said that taking food costs, supplies, administration, and everything except utilities and other indirect costs into consideration, the cost per meal at Gulfview School last year was 93.51 cents.

Hancock North Central's costs were 70.17, and Charles B. Murphy, 85.61. The state average over the period was 68 cents, with Bay St. Louis City Schools having a per meal cost of 70.19, Long Beach, 67.70, and Pass Christian, 59.22 cents.

As matters now stand, she said, Hancock County is the only system without a supervisor.

She said the secret of good management was to try and maintain a meal cost close to the state reimbursement rate, a figure permitting menu planning and good portions per child.

Miss Elkins said that this year the senior high students were going to be permitted a choice of menu, and able to pick three of five components. These she cited as being: meat, vegetables, fruit, milk, and bread. Such selection would qualify for the state reimbursement, she told trustees.

She said a comparison between Pass Christian's lunchroom program and that of the county system showed that with three cafeterias in operation, servicing an average of 1,500 meals per day, the program costs Hancock $26,157 per month.

Pass Christian, with four cafeterias, averaging 1,221 meals per day, paid $17,000 average per month.

She said the income qualification rates to qualify for the 10 cent student meal, were also changed and cited two examples: a family of four, with an income of $11,110 or less would qualify, as would a family of six with an income of $14,410.

Free lunch income qualification examples were given as $7,130 per annum for a family of four, and $9,240 for a family of six.

Randolph said that during the last school year, 74 percent of the system's students ate free or reduced price meals, while 26 percent paid the full rate.

Gas rates and other operating costs, caused trustees to set a rate of 25 cents per mile, up 10 cents from the existing charge, on all transportation involved in extra-curricular activity usage.

"Our records show we spend more on transportation than any other system in the state," Superintendent Terrell Randolph told the board.

He said, "We do a lot of traveling and lose money on these special trips. Our transportation costs are higher because we are not getting enough money per trip."

James Baldree, principal, Charles B. Murphy School, Pearlinton, said such a charge would seriously impair the athletic program, already cut back in the budget for the coming year.

Randolph agreed but said that if it didn't come out of that fund to meet the transportation cost, it would have to be taken in "another form."

Trustees also agreed to changes in school bus route operations involving routes 9, 27, 1, and 3, which will result in the saving of some 5,896 miles per year. The changes were requested by James O'Hara, principal of North Central.

due to de-certification, Santa Cruz said of the home's 80 patients, 70 of whom depend on Medicaid to keep them in Gulf View, only five had been discharged.

The State Board of Health cited inadequate staffing, particularly pertaining to Licensed Practical Nurses (LPN's), old facilities, and difficulty in maintaining a clean and healthy atmosphere as major areas of concern, when recommending de-certification.

Santa Cruz said work has progressed significantly on correcting some of the building's physical deficiencies, but continued to express little hope that the number of LPN's could be increased. He said earlier that he had advertised for nurses in various journals and trade magazines, but had received little positive response.

Marine Resources Council announces CZM meetings

The second series of public meetings sponsored by the Mississippi Marine Resources Council on Coastal Zone Management will be conducted next month.

During these meetings, the council will ask the public to make recommendations for areas to be designated as those of "particular concern."

It is within these areas that the state's coastal program will be applied to provide for orderly growth and development of the state's coastal and marine resources.

The council has been authorized to develop a coastal program under provisions of the federal Coastal Zone Management Act of 1972. An earlier series of meetings last winter was conducted on the topic of boundaries.

At these meetings, to be held in four cities along the Coast Aug. 16-19, the public will be asked to nominate specific geographic areas which they feel require special attention.

Among the types of areas which will be designated for particular concern, according to Executive Director J.E. Thomas, are:

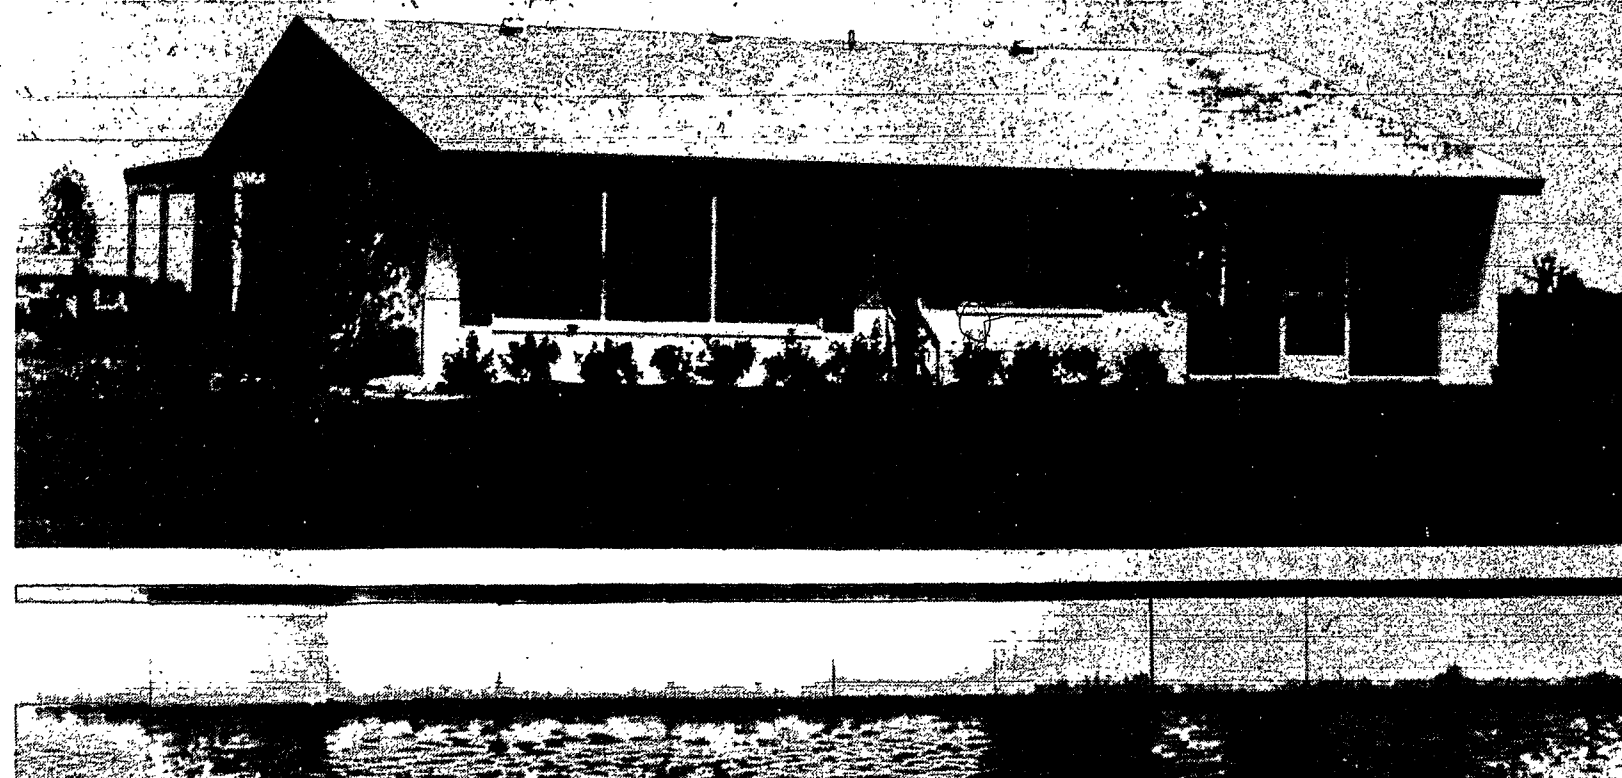

Areas of unique or fragile habitat, areas of historical or archeological significance, areas of scenic importance, areas of high natural productivity in the life cycles of seafood and wildlife, areas with recreational value, areas where development is dependent on access to coastal waters, areas with significance for commercial or industrial development, areas with significant potential for mineral extraction, areas of urban concentration, hazardous areas due to storms or flooding, and areas needed to protect or replenish coastal resources.

Forms to be used to nominate areas of concern are included in advertisements in several local newspapers which are announcing the meetings. The minimum information requested is the name or description of the area, its location and the reason for nomination.

Similar forms and additional information will be included in a booklet describing the CZM program which will be inserted in local daily newspapers Aug. 1. The forms may be mailed to the council office in Long Beach or brought to the meetings.

The meetings, all to begin at 7:30 p.m., will be held at the following locations: Gulfport, West Side Community Center, Aug. 16; Bay St. Louis, Circuit Courtroom, Hancock County Courthouse, Aug. 17; Pascagoula, Circuit Courtroom, Jackson County Courthouse, Aug. 18; and Biloxi, Biloxi Community Center, Aug. 19.

WATERFRONT VILLAS like this one in Mt. Vernon, a new retirement community in Sarasota, Fla., are attracting growing numbers of Europeans to the U.S. The condominium sells for about $40,000, compared with $100,000-plus for a similar home in European retirement havens.

Europeans attracted to Florida communities

Florida, which has traditionally attracted young and old Americans to its rolling green countryside and snow white beaches, is now appealing to a growing number of Europeans also.

Growing numbers of financially secure senior citizens from France, Germany, Holland, Italy and Greece are buying retirement homes in Florida.

They hardly constitute a mass exodus like their less well-off predecessors who came to this country in the late 19th and early 20th centuries. But more of them are arriving every year, as economic, social and political conditions worsen in Europe.

Like a great many retirees, they desire to spend their golden years under sunny skies by the water. But traditional retirement havens in their native lands — places like the Italian Riviera, Algarve on the Portuguese Mediterranean coast, the Costa del Sol in Spain — have become terribly crowded and expensive.

By contrast, Florida, especially the Gulf Coast, is still relatively serene and, according to some experts, one of the last great real estate bargains.

The state's building boom collapsed two years ago when the recession hit, leaving a condominium glut estimated at 70,000 units. Stuck with unsold units, developers are offering rebates, discounts, even holding auctions to try to unload their inventories.

Gilbert Waters, who is building a 430-unit retirement community called Mt. Vernon in Sarasota, Florida, says, "Dollar for dollar, Florida waterfront property is today the best real estate investment in the world for residential purposes."

Waters says $40,000 to $70,000 condominiums in Florida compare favorably with units of $100,000 or more in European resort areas.

Two years ago in Portugal, Waters says, a 1,200-square-foot condominium "with a terrible kitchen and poor floor space" was priced at $105,000. Financing arrangements consisted of "50 percent down and the rest upon closing — no terms, no bank financing."

Waters says a good 10 percent of his recent condominium buyers are Europeans around retirement age.

The Sarasota area first attracted the interest of many Europeans when Willy Brandt, then chancellor of West Germany, vacationed there a few years ago. Today, builders like Waters are keeping the interest alive by advertising their homes in newspapers abroad.

Waters has been advertising in the International Edition of the Hearst-Tribune and has been sending literature to respondents. He says, "They are very impressed with the size and price of our homes and with the fact that we use internationally known components."

Some condominium developments and apartment buildings cater to the European transplants by offering Continental cuisine and service. For his Mt. Vernon project Waters has planned such European amenities as chamber music recitals, limited automobile access, and wildlife preserves.

Safety of investment is another attraction to the Europeans. Buying land in Europe is a somewhat risky venture these days, what with increasing political and social instability there. (Examples are the recent revolution in Portugal, the uncertain political climate in Spain since Franco's death, and the growing strength of Italy's communist party.)

hand, is seen as a safe investment which continues to increase in value.

Not all the Europeans buying Florida homes are retirees. Some are well-heeled vacationers who buy the homes as investments, perhaps using them during their vacations and renting them out through management companies the rest of the year.

Picayune flea market scheduled Aug. 7-8

The monthly flea market sponsored by the Picayune Chamber of Commerce has been scheduled Aug. 7-8 at the Fairgrounds building on Highway 11 south.

No flea market was held in July because the date conflicted with Bicentennial programs throughout the area.

Ken Samples, Chamber of Commerce president, said reservations for booth rentals continue to be received.

Reservations for booths may be made by contacting the Chamber office at 798-3122, or by writing to the Chamber of Commerce, P.O. Box 448, Picayune.

Admission to the building is free and there is no charge for parking. Free door prizes are given throughout the day, and the Pioneer 4-H Club will man the food concession booth for August.

Inclement weather should have no effect on the turnout because the market is held within the fairgrounds building, Samples said.

Hours are from 9 a.m. - 6 p.m. on Saturday and from noon to 6 p.m. on Sunday.

Dist. 5 Nurses support MHSA

District No. 5 Nurses' Association, representing 250 registered nurses in Harrison and Hancock Counties, voted their support to the proposed Mississippi Health Systems Agency, Inc. (MHSA) at their monthly meeting July 22.

MHSA is one of the two agencies vying for position as the state's funnel for federal health care funds. Telegrams expressing District No. 5's support of the proposed MHSA will be sent to David Matthews, Secretary of HEW in Washington, D.C., and the regional HEW office in Atlanta, GA.

Russell Swansburg, elected nurse representative on the state's southern council of the proposed MHSA, is a member of District No. 5 Nurses' Association.

A committee representing registered nurses of all professional fields in District No. 5 was formed to work with Swansburg to determine all health care needs in this area.

FARM BUREAU INSURANCE — HWY. 603
I am going to buy a new car which will be financed by our local bank. What types of coverage will the bank require on the car?
Banks generally require only Physical Damage coverage. Physical Damage is basically divided into two major parts: Comprehensive and Collision. Comprehensive Coverage applies to physical loss other than by collision — such as glass breakage, fire, hail, etc. It may be purchased with or without a deductible — depending on the cost you wish to pay. Collision Coverage pays for all losses incurred by collision with another object and may be purchased in various deductibles. The bank does not require Liability Coverage but such coverage may be required for other reasons. Therefore, make sure you are adequately insured in all respects — not just for financing requirements.

Shower honors Rhonda Cook

Miss Rhonda Marie Cook, bride-elect of Keith Joseph Aubert, was honored with a miscellaneous bridal shower Sunday afternoon hosted by Mrs. Jimmy LaFontaine, Mrs. Sylvia Peterson, Mrs. Kellie Corr and Mrs. Alta Hougens at the LaFontaine home.

A pink and white color scheme was used in the decorations and gifts were presented from a wishing well.

The honoree and mothers, Mrs. Edward Cook and Mrs. Len Aubert, were given corsages fashioned of miniature kitchen gadgets. Miss Cook and Mr. Aubert will be married Aug. 7 at St. Clare Catholic Church, Waveland.

Caddell named codes director
 William F. Caddell was named director of codes for the City of Waveland during a city council meeting last week.

Caddell, former Waveland building inspector, was appointed to his current position following successful completion of an examination.

YOU—OVERPAYING ON TAXES?

By Robert C. Dunwoody,
Senior Vice President,
Paine, Webber, Jackson &
Curtis Inc.
Member New York
Stock Exchange

At tax time, can a brokerage firm help its clients to make the most intelligent decisions about their investment portfolios? It can if its clients were able to receive a complete report including not only the realized gains and losses of their securities transactions, but also unrealized gains and losses as well. Having this information in a well-organized format enables an individual investor to spot tax saving opportunities that would otherwise be difficult to effectively assess.

Dunwoody

This type of tax assistance can be found as part of a new service package called "Alpha Account" which was developed by Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis, the nationwide investment firm.

In addition, this new tax-assistance package, which is issued quarterly to the client, includes not only capital gains but interest and individual income information as well.

According to William D. Doyno, senior vice president of R. Shaver Associates, a well-known financial consulting firm, "Paine Webber's tax-assistance package is the first automated tax-assistance service produced in the brokerage community. Their schedule of realized and unrealized capital gains and losses provides the necessary tools to assist clients in planning their tax strategies."

"He loses all who loses the right moment." Spanish proverb

Manning melon station

James M. Perkins, right, of Collins, a watermelon grower, is one of many farmers who make contact with buyers through the watermelon buying stations operated by the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce. Carroll Williams of Prentiss, one of the operators of the Collins station, records data needed by both buyer and seller in helping the two parties get together for a possible transaction.

HIGHWAY SAFETY

New Idea Helps

Prevent Battery Failure
If you've ever had to drive to a remote place, the chances are when you shut off your car's engine there was a nagging question in the back of your head

"Will it start again?"
Thanks to an innovation in automobile batteries, you can now almost forget about

INNOVATIVE IDEA—A battery that lasts as long as your car starting failure caused by your battery running dry or being choked off by corrosion. A new maintenance free battery, developed by Gould Inc., greatly reduces these risks. It is easily recognized because there are no filler caps and you don't have to add water. In addition, corrosion is virtually eliminated.

This new battery not only maximizes starting power, but it retains its stored energy six to eight times longer than conventional batteries. But its best feature is that it gives you, the car owner, greater peace of mind.

In an age when everything seems to be made with built-in obsolescence, it is reassuring to know that there is a product you can rely on—again and again and again.

DO YOU HAVE A DRINKING PROBLEM?
Help is available through Alcoholics Anonymous for the problem drinker, and through Al-Anon for his or her family.
Call 467-6414 for AA and Al-Anon information.
Al-Anon meets Mondays 8:00 P.M., St. Augustine Seminary cafeteria.

Ole Miss Faulkner conference program participants told UNIVERSITY - It's an event which has acquired the zeal of a crusade although there are no willful steeds, suits of armor, or colorful banners.

The crusade is literary; participants are admirers of William Faulkner; sites are Rowan Oak, the Nobel Prize winning author's Oxford home, surrounding areas, and the University of Mississippi, which is sponsoring the week-long Faulkner and Yoknapatawpha Conference beginning Aug. 1.

The 1976 sessions have attracted men and women from 29 states and the District of Columbia in addition to several foreign countries, including France, Japan, and Canada. Scholars, teachers, critics, students and other lovers of literature are arriving from California to Massachusetts and Wisconsin to Texas.

The Conference, offered by the University's Department of English and coordinated by the Division of Special Activities, includes lectures, panel discussions, tours, readings, and films, as well as conversations with members of the Faulkner family and townspeople.

Program participants this year are:

...Daniel Aaron, author of "The Unwritten War: American Writers and the Civil War," "The United States: A History of the Republic," and "Writers on the Left." Aaron is professor of English at Harvard University and has received Guggenheim, Smith-Mundt, Fund for the Republic, and Fulbright Fellowships.

...Shelby Foote, a native Mississippian internationally known as a novelist, short story writer, historian, and lecturer. He is the author of "The Civil War: A Narrative" and the novels, "Follow Me Down," and "Love in a Dry Season."

...Evans Harrington, Ole Miss professor of English whose articles and essays have appeared in such publications as Yale Review,

Saturday Evening Post, and The Southern Review. Among his novels is "The Prisoners."

...Michael Millgate, professor of English at the University of Toronto and author of such books as "American Social Fiction," "William Faulkner," and "Thomas Hardy: His Career as a Novelist." A native of England, he has taught there and in the United States, Canada, and India.

...John Pillington, professor of English and associate dean of the Ole Miss Graduate School, is the author of the recent two-volume "Stark Young: A Life in the Arts," "Francis Marion Crawford," and "Henry Blake Fuller."

...Louis D. Rubin, English

professor at the University of North Carolina, has been a Fulbright lecturer in France and has written, among other volumes, "The Curious Death of the Novel and Other Essays," "The Teller and the Tale."

...Darwin Turner, director of Afro-American Studies and professor of English at the University of Iowa, is a poet and scholar whose work includes "Black American Literature," "Hawthorne's Scarlet Letter," and "In a Minor Chord."

...Linda Wagner, Michigan State University professor of English, is the author of "Ernest Hemingway: Five Decades of Criticism," "Hemingway and Faulkner, Inventors-Masters," and

"Denise Levertov." She has had poems, short stories and essays published in numerous reviews and quarterlies.

...James W. Webb, professor emeritus of English at Ole Miss and curator of Rowan Oak, who is the co-author of "William Faulkner of Oxford." He has written and lectured on Faulkner extensively.

A special feature of the Conference will be the premiere production of a musical comedy, "The Battle of Hattiesburg," based on a Faulkner short story. The play is being performed as the final production of the 1976 Summer Showcase season at Ole Miss and will feature University and Oxford participants.

HYPERTENSION: THE SILENT DISEASE

High blood pressure, or hypertension as it is known medically, is a major health problem in the United States. Over 25 million Americans have the condition and it is believed that over 11 million cases go undetected. If untreated, hypertension has been found to be a contributing factor to heart attack, stroke, or kidney disease.

Labelled "The Silent Disease" because it has no early symptoms, it is one of the few serious illnesses that a person can do something about, but it does require cooperation and compliance with the physician's regimen of treatment.

The Pharmaceuticals Division of CIBA-GEIGY, a leading producer of antihypertensive medication, embarked upon a series of screening programs to make the public aware of the dangers of high blood pressure. The Company, in conjunction with heart associations and medical societies, screened over one million persons. Over 20% of one in every five, showed elevated readings. These people were referred to their physicians for further evaluation.

Hypertension can set the body up for serious cardiovascular complications with virtually no warning. Heredity, obesity, too much salt in the diet, anxiety and stress are contributing causes. Control of the disease is possible, with recognition of the problem, treatment by physicians and compliance by the patient.

A blood pressure check is simple, quick, and painless. Early detection of a problem could set in motion treatment which could dramatically change the quality, even the length of a person's life. CIBA-GEIGY is a forerunner in the fight for health and well-being. The Company also creates and manufactures a wide variety of special purpose chemical products, dyes, plastics and additives, agricultural and consumer products.

Proceeds to American Cancer Society

Diamondhead to host Hagen tournament

Diamondhead Country Club will sponsor the Walter Hagen Golf Tournament for the benefit of the American Cancer Society on Aug. 19.

The 18 hole event will consist of two divisions: men's handicap and men's scratch golf.

Local winners from each division will be eligible to play in a state tournament in October. State winners will proceed to the national tournament at Disney World in December.

The tournament will be 18 holes, best ball of foursome, and will be played by USGA rules.

Entry fee will be $25 per player or $100 for foursomes. Pros will be welcome to play in the scratch division with one pro per team. Entry deadline is Aug. 15. A maximum of 64 teams will be accepted.

Hagen for whom the tournament is named was a professional golfer who died of cancer. The golfing event which bears his name was begun in 1959 and has increased in popularity each year. More than 20 states are expected to compete in this year's national tournament.

Chairmen of the event are Mike Magee, Pat MacManus, Billy Applewhite and Ronnie Benandi.

Entry fees may be mailed to Mike Magee, P.O. Box 70, Biloxi, MS 39533. Entry forms are available from any of the chairmen or from the American Cancer Society, 394 Courthouse Road, Gulfport, MS 39501.

Corr picked for All-Tournament team

Bay St. Louis All-Star Kerry Corr was named to the state Babe Ruth All Tournament Team this week.

Corr who pitched for the Bay All-Stars during the state Babe Ruth tournament at Olive Branch last week was instrumental in the Bay's only win of the tournament—a 15-10 victory over Hernando. In that game, Corr had a grand slam home run.

Corr played for Rotary International during the regular Babe Ruth season. The 15-year-old St. Stanislaus student is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Corr of Bay St. Louis.

Bay Babe Ruthers in state playoffs

LONG BEACH — The Bay St. Louis Babe Ruth 13-year-olds advanced to the state finals this week on the strength of wins over Orange Grove 9-2 on Sunday and over host Long Beach 5-1 on Monday.

Long Beach and Bay St. Louis were to play for the title last night after Long Beach also gained the finals after winning a playoff with Orange Grove 5-1.

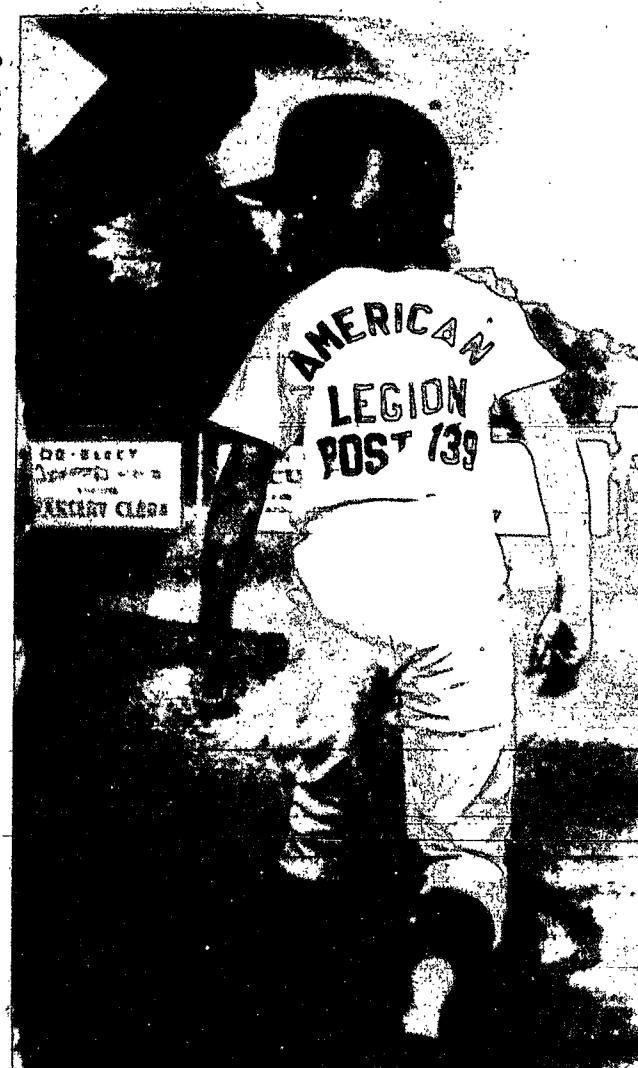

Long Beach must beat Bay St. Louis twice to win the state title where the Bay needed only a win Wednesday night to clinch the championship in the double elimination tournament.

The winner of the state tournament will represent Mississippi in the district tournament to be held in Shelbyville, Tenn., beginning Aug. 13.

Mike Ross led the Long Beach team with five hit pitching Tuesday night, whiffing nine batters in the process.

Wally Carter and David Denmark led Long Beach in hitting with identical two for three performances.

Cheerleaders excel at camp

The St. Stanislaus girl cheerleaders excelled in every department at the N.C.A. Cheerleader Camp held at Perkinston Junior College, July 19-23. They were in active competition with 45 other schools. The group received an outstanding and three straight superior ratings during the daily evaluation held Tuesday through Friday. They were judged on the basis of their cheers with emphasis on expression, rhythm, coordination and motion techniques.

The cheerleaders were also recognized as a "Super Star Squad" by completing six out of seven categories combining cheers with areas such as tumbling and pyramid building.

The highlight of the camp session for the St. Stanislaus cheerleaders was the winning of three straight "Spirit Sticks" which are awarded to select schools who excel in spirit and cooperative willingness with the staff members. By their winning the "Spirit Stick" on the final day of camp, the cheerleaders were able to bring this award home as a permanent possession.

Flotilla 35 sponsoring courtesy boat examinations

Make the seal of safety a part of your boat by getting a Coast Guard Auxiliary Courtesy Motorboat examination, urges Flotilla 35, Pass Christian. A free check of your boat's equipment covering all Federal requirements plus additional standards recommended by the Auxiliary, the examination is conducted only with your consent by a qualified member of the Auxiliary.

If your boat passes the examination, the award of the seal is your assurance that your boat is properly equipped for fun and safety on the water. Motorboats meeting Federal equipment requirements as well as the Auxiliary Standards may be awarded this decal.

Legion wins Bay title

American Legion gathered behind the five hit pitching of Bruce Cabell Monday night to defeat Gulf National Bank 10-4 and win the Bay St. Louis Little League overall championship.

Legion was winner of the second half play while Gulf

National had won the first half of league play.

Frankie Reed led Legion at the plate collecting a single and a triple in three trips to the plate.

Keith Johnson and Graig Satter both were one for two at the plate with Johnson getting a single and Satter collecting a double.

Legion scored four runs in the first inning, one in the second, three in the fourth, and two in the fifth. Joe Gex led Gulf National at the plate getting a double and a single in three trips to the plate. Mark Sivori and Neal Wilkerson both were one for three.

Losing pitcher was Neal Wilkerson who gave up eight hits in five innings. Gulf National scored one run in the first inning, one in the second and two runs in the third.

Luke the Drifter leads Alabama charge

(Special to The Echo) PEARL RIVER, La. — Alabama horses won back-to-back big races here Sunday at Oak Downs.

Henry Cash's Luke The Drifter pulled ahead about halfway through the 250-yard 12th to win easily against five other horses. Winning time was 13.97 seconds.

James Watson's Mike and Clyde Moran's Cypsy Chick, a pair of Hancock County horses, finished second and third, respectively.

In the 350-yard 13th, also featuring a full gate of six horses, Bud Lins' Bo Rimbo broke on top and flashed to a solid Class AA time of 18.42 seconds. Edward Patton's The Fighting Kid, a steady campaigner from Hancock County, placed second at 18.695.

Capping it off for the visitors from Alabama was a victory by Lins' String Bean in the five-furlong 15th. Danny Ward was aboard all three Alabama winners.

Stacy's Charge, owned by Watson, won the 300-yard third and Raymond Ellis Jr.'s featuring a full gate of six yard eighth for the only two Hancock County victories on the 15-race program.

Tight races continued in the leading trainer and jockey standings. Rocky Harris of Picayune holds a 35-34 lead over Merlin Marechal of New Orleans in the trainer standings while Dennis Ory of Pearl River has posted 110 winning rides to 104 for Charlie Silkwood of Gulfport. Watson of Bay St. Louis holds down fifth place in the trainer standings with 18 victories.

Sunday's results:

1) 350 yards, Milk Money, 18.83 seconds, Bob Teer, owner; Donald Graham, trainer; Joey Meyer, jockey. Boston Wheeler, 18.89. Jacksman, 19.045. Call Me Leo, fourth.

2) 3 furlongs, Musco's Baby, 37.98, Andrew Jaeger, owner; Merlin Marechal, trainer; John Hirdes, jockey. Jay's Gold, second.

3) 300 yards, Stacy's Charge, 16.88, James Watson, owner and trainer; Charlie Silkwood, jockey. Night Fight, 16.90.

Wildcats announce nine game schedule

POPLARVILLE — Pearl River Junior College's football Wildcats begin preparation for their 10 game season here Monday, Aug. 16. All players will report the afternoon of Aug. 15.

Thirty-two sophomores and 42 freshman are expected for the initial two-day workouts. J.C. Arban, head coach, said the first three days will be in shorts and light gear.

"We'll be conditioning and teaching plays those first few practices," Arban said. "Getting in shape and used to this extreme heat is very important in the early going," Arban added.

Pearl River will open on the road Sept. 9 against the Northwest Rangers at Senatobia, a city just 30 miles south of Memphis. The first home game is set for Saturday, Aug. 18, against the Jones Bobcats of Ellisville.

The remaining schedule includes East Mississippi at Scooba, Sept. 25; Hinds at Raymond, Oct. 2; Itawamba, at home, Oct. 9; Gulf Coast at home, Oct. 16; East Central at Decatur, Oct. 23; Holmes is slated for homecoming, Oct. 30; Southwest, at home, Nov. 6; and Co-Lin at Wesson on Thursday, Nov. 11.

All games will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Red Foxes, Angels record softball wins

The Red Foxes and the Angels picked up wins in the Parks and Playground's Girls' Softball League last week.

The Foxes defeated the Maroon Mooners 20-18 in a close game throughout the five innings of play.

The Foxes picked up most of their runs in the second and fifth innings while the Mooners scored largely in the third and fourth innings.

Leading scorers for the Foxes were Patsy Bourgeois with four runs and Terri Collins with three runs.

Melissa Bradley and Carrie Murtagh were the top scorers for the Mooners with four runs each. Willene Collins made three runs for the Mooners.

Winning pitcher for the Foxes was Terri Collins.

Susan Robinson received the mound victory for the Angels in their 9-6 victory over the Blue Demons.

Dana Favre and Theresa Brown led the Angels bench with two runs each. Ceseley Acker had two runs for the Demons.

Knights defeat Blue Jays

The Blue Knights had an easy time of it with the Blue Jays in boys' minor league action last week.

The Knights defeated the Jays 12-1 after scoring six runs in the first inning. Andre Benoit, Troy Sauder, and Kevin Crosby were leading scorers for the Knights with two runs apiece. Annette Karl made the only run for the Blue Jays in the second inning of play.

Winning pitcher for the Knights was Jeffrey Smith.

In a game last Thursday, the Red Sox took an early one run lead and held on to defeat the Green Brewers 11-10 after two innings of play. The game was shortened because of the Little League District playoffs the same evening.

Billy Bohny, Terri Rhodes, David Hegwood and Drew Fusch led the Green Brewers with two runs each.

Leading scorers for the Red Sox were Buddy Boswell and Wayne Crosby with two runs apiece.

HAND ME ONE MORE — Stacey Carter, a Maroon Mooners player, filled in as bat girl recently during a girl's softball game. The program is sponsored by the City Parks and Playgrounds.

Kantcha Ketchum

By L.S. (Doc) Elliott

For the next two months the best time to go fishing is early in the morning or later in the evening. Fish don't bite in the middle of the day. The water gets too warm. Fish the shady banks for best results. I am speaking now about fresh water fish. Salt water fish stay mostly in deeper water and the temperature doesn't make much difference. Bass and perch fishing has been better with the tides right and a dark moon. The moon also affects fishing. Flounders and soft crabs are caught better on a full moon. Bass feed on moonlight nights. Naturally bass fishing is best on a waning moon. We have learned these things by experience.

Whether you know it or not you can go in a boat along the Highway or Railroad Bridges and catch flounders by dragging along the bottom with shrimp or artificial baits.

You can also catch them by throwing a cast net. Flounders are good whether fried, stuffed or baked. They lay on the bottom and hit any kind of bait that passes them.

Flounders are being caught everywhere in abundance, on the hook and line and by spearing up the rivers, out front and along most banks in the bay in shallow water, on the Mud Flat, etc. They are one of the best eating fish. No matter how they are prepared they are delicious any old way.

Let's talk about bass fishing whether on the surface or underwater. Fishing for them in the middle of the day is ridiculous. They are mostly caught early in the morning or late in the evening, this time of the year. Fishing along shady banks brings best results. Only in the winter time will they strike in the middle of the day when the water is cool. For speckle trout they will strike on both a falling or rising tide as long as the tide is moving. Make sense, don't it?

For you guys, who like speckle trout fishing and go to Hopedale, Chalmette or Golden Meadows reports are that they are hitting like nobody's business. One fisherman caught 3 ice boxes of speckles, 4 to 6 pounds last week, including some red fish. We have speckles and reds at Half Moon, Big and Little Grassy and all along Heron Bay that will satisfy most fishermen.

The season on brown shrimp is about to open. It might be better and last longer than the first season. Brown shrimp are much larger and we think better for boiled shrimp and shrimp salads. One of the brown shrimp can make a lot of pieces of bait while fishing for both salt and fresh water fish, such as bass and perch.

For us oldtimers to catch bass and perch you can't beat and near Grassy Point where speckle trout and Red Fish are usually caught. To mention it in front of the old Pine Hills Hotel there is wonderful soft crabbing and floundering when the tide is right.

One crabber told me he had 8 crab traps out front and caught 6 crabs. Proves they are not giving. The same thing applies to soft crabs. When there is no hard crabs there can't be soft crabs.

Another crabber, Mike Friedman said he can't catch enough crabs to make a pot of gumbo. Things must be bad.

The temperature has been running in the high 90's the past week. Too hot to go fishing. Only thing to do is find a big Oak tree and relax in the shade.

Fishermen were delayed Sunday from going fishing. Were watching the railroad crew repairing cars derailed Saturday night by the depot. Good thing Sam's Bar was near the scene. There were a lot of dry spectators!

The Hellgrammite better known as the "Dobson Fly" is not too well known as a real bass bait. It can be found hiding under large rocks in clear streams at the same time bass are biting. It looks vicious but easily caught and handled.

Can't understand why more frogs are not being caught. Our small shallow lakes are full of them and now that we haven't had much rain frogs go to road side ditches and pot holes to find water. A frog hand grabber and a head light makes catching them easy. Bull frogs are the better known variety. They run good size, too. Frog legs in my way of thinking are better eating than chicken, any old time.

Maybe most of the old time frog catchers are gone. Catching frogs is another good sport and interesting. Puts a lot of food on the table.

This illustration, "Oliver and the Lion," by Hilary Knight is one of 65 works included in the traveling art exhibit Between the Covers of Cricket Magazine; it is taken from the September 1975 issue.

Traveling Exhibition

Original Cricket Art Tours Country

"Between the Covers of Cricket Magazine," a collection of original illustrations from Cricket Magazine has opened a long-term nationwide tour, announced Marianne Carus, Editor-in-Chief. Initial bookings for the traveling exhibit include the Eastern Massachusetts Library System; the Hallmark Gallery in Kansas City, Missouri; Junior Art Gallery in Louisville, Ky.; Royal Ontario Museum in Toronto, Canada; and Western Illinois University in Macomb, Illinois.

"Only the finest illustrations and decorations are considered for the magazine," said Mrs. Carus. "Art work is commissioned by the best artists here and abroad. The art direction of the literary monthly is based on draftsmanlike, humorous, and the problem solving ability of the artist."

Artists whose works are included in the special traveling exhibit include Trina Schart Hyman (Cricket's Art Director), Marilyn Hafner, Wally Tripp, Hilary Knight, Garth Williams, Gareth Floyd, Cyndy Szekeres, Friso Hendstra, Jan Adkins, and thirty-five other contributors.

"In presenting this traveling exhibit to people of all ages, particularly to children, we recognize the all-important work of the illustrator in children's book-magazine publishing," added Mrs. Carus.

"Too often, the artist receives scant attention." Cricket Magazine is in its third year of publication. Its readers, over 600,000 of them, can be found in more than one hundred countries in all parts of the world.

Clifton Fadiman is Senior Editor of Cricket, and the Editorial Board includes such top children's literature authorities as Lloyd Alexander, Eleanor Cameron, Isaac Bashevis Singer, Walter Schert, Virginia Faviland, Sheila Egoff, Paul Hens, and John Rowe Townsend.

The magazine treats its readers—children between the ages of 6 and 12—to fairy tales with fire-breathing dragons, adventure stories about real people, mythology and folk tales from the past, science fiction that reaches into the future, poems, craft articles, riddles, and much more.

"Between the Covers of Cricket Magazine" is made available through the services of Van Arsdale Associates, Inc., Alexandria, Virginia by the Open Court Publishing Company.

Write to Public Relations, Cricket Magazine, P. O. Box 100, La Salle, Illinois 61301 for information about current bookings or to inquire about future booking opportunities.

SPORTSMAN OF THE WEEK - Emile (Potts) Perre was over for a vacation from California. He is originally from Bay St. Louis where he spent his boyhood days. Older fishermen remember "Potts" and his fishing ability. His sisters are my neighbors.

the homely earth worm when fishing with a perch pole. Hook it so it can wiggle. That wiggle is what counts. Bass and perch hit anything that moves. Fishing by tree tops or any obstacles in the water pays off. There is almost always a big bass near by.

Went over to Bayou Portage last week, caught 10 bass of good size. This spot is near some good salt water fishing, too, out in the Bay of St. Louis
